

The Panther Chameleon

What is the description of a panther chameleon?

Description: The Panther is one of the most colorful of all chameleons, particularly the male chameleon. They sport an array of colors that rival a rainbow. Males have a broken white stripe that goes down the length of the body. The less flamboyant females are usually tan, gray or pale

In the reptile world, there are some bizarre shapes and colors, but some of the most striking variations are found in the chameleons. These colorful lizards are known for their ability to change their color; their long, sticky tongue; and their eyes, which can be moved independently of each other.

The lizards called chameleons are famous for being able to change the color of their skin. Chameleons live in Africa, Asia, and Europe. The lizards that are commonly sold as chameleons in North American pet shops are actually anoles. Anoles also can change color but not as strikingly as true chameleons can.